The Balmoral Collection

You've asked, and we've listened. Our much-loved Balmoral Collection is expanding with a fresh release of interior door designs.

We're celebrating the enduring appeal of the arched design that continues to grow in popularity across furniture and lighting to entryways and windows. At the same time, we're introducing additional geometric designs to complement our Peninsula Collection of external doors.

Whether you're looking to create a cohesive interior aesthetic or introduce subtle architectural accents, the expanded Balmoral Collection provides the answer.

The Balmoral Collection features:

- Primed MDF skins ready to paint
- Deep carved rout pattern on both sides of door

Balmoral PBAL 3 & Peninsula PPEN 3

We understand the importance of creating a sense of flow from the moment you arrive at the front door, which is why these three new geometric profiles are designed to complement our Peninsula Collection of entrance doors.

Echoing the linear routing of the Peninsula Collection for continuity across your home, these Balmoral profiles draw from the same relaxed sophistication that defines modern coastal styles.

Arches have been a defining architectural feature across design periods. From classical Roman and Renaissance architecture to Art Deco and contemporary interiors, they continue to be valued for their elegance and timeless appeal.

Effective in transitional zones such as hallways, entries and passageways, these new arched profiles help you to introduce or echo subtle curvatures across your space, offering a visual break from linear sight lines.

The precise, deep routing on both door faces enhances shadow play across different lighting conditions while inviting interaction. Whether paired with other curved features like arched windows or used as a standalone detail, these new profiles offer a refined detail that won't go unnoticed.
